

LEADING IN PLAIN SIGHT FRAMEWORK

An Integrated Leadership Overview for Law Enforcement and First Responder Organizations

Doug White | Tell This Story LLC | DougWhiteOfficial.com

What This Framework Is

The Leading in Plain Sight Framework is a unified leadership architecture built from 25 years of law enforcement service — patrol, field training, bomb squad, and command — and grounded in peer-reviewed research on stress physiology and organizational leadership. It gives leaders at every level the language to name what's already visible in their people, and the accountability structure to act on it.

The Problem This Framework Addresses

- Chronic occupational stress accumulates across careers without structured recognition or recovery.
- Leadership development stops at rank promotion instead of continuing as a career-long discipline.
- The gap between an agency's stated values and its lived culture widens — and no one names it.

The Architecture

Four integrated components. Each stands alone. Together, they form a complete leadership operating system.

HAL-RA High Allostatic Load Responder Adaptation	What chronic stress does to a first responder physiologically across a career.
I.M.P.R.I.N.T. Framework™ The Field Tool	How leaders develop themselves and others with intention, at every level.
Leader-Driven Durability™ The Accountability Layer	What leaders owe the culture — and how they build environments that last.
Ambition of Shame The Origin Concept	Why the damage stays hidden. Developed in full in the book Leading in Plain Sight (2026).
